TIME IS SHORT IN THE ROLL CALL

Today, Tomorrow And Thursday Ends Campaign—Many Persons Have Benefited From Nursing Service

LAST CHANCE TO ENROLL

Response Has Fallen Below Expectations, But People Can Make Up For the Deficiency In Time That Remains—Hoped to Yet Reach Standard

Time is short in the Red Cross Roll call. Today, tomorrow and Thursday ends the campaign, and it is hoped that inasmuch as the returns have been a little disappointing, that the people will make up for the discrepancy in the days that remain. The solicitors, by the way, are entitled to great credit for their assiduous labors in behalf of the drive, and it is through no dereliction or a falling short of their duty that the response has not been what it was hoped it would be. However, much can be accomplished in the short time that is left, and it is hoped that the response on the part of the people will be characteristic of them in commendable donations, worthy of the great cause represented.

Many families in Charleroi, North Charleroi, and the locality covered by the local chapter have been benefited from the nursing service maintained. War veterans have been assisted by the organization and its workers. In its roll call, the American Red Cross appeals to those who have benefited and to the public-spirited citizens of the district to support it by enrolling as members. Have you done your part?

Persons who have been missed by the solicitors, and there may have been such, or may be such, can leave their contributions with John D. Berryman, the chairman of the local chapter and they will receive due credit and the credentials that show they are members of one of the most beneficial organizations extant—the American Red Cross.

EXECUTION ISSUED ON FAMOUS ESTATE

To cover an obligation of $30,000, an execution has been issued against the Friendship Hill estate of J. V. Thompson at Uniontown. The Federal Security company is seeking to sell the historic premises in Springhill township to satisfy its claim secured from a long list of assignments. Mr. Thompson offered Sarah Dawson Spear in 1910 the sum of $200,000 payable in installments over a period of many years, for a loan of $150,000 which he needed at the time. Friendship Hill was put up as security.

Two tracts of land are mentioned. One contains 537 1-3 acres and the other 90 acres.

In addition to Mr. Thompson, others named in the proceedings are the Gallatin Land company, Star Gas company, A. S. Maple and the Atlantic Coal company. All of these concerns

Home And Store Go Up In Smoke

The home and store of Wasil Liari of Nemacolin was destroyed by fire early Saturday morning. The loss will probably reach $10,000, and is partially covered by insurance. The blaze is thought to have been of incendiary origin.

The flames had made such headway when discovered that Liari and his wife had time to save only a portion of their clothing, and the children had to be taken from the burning building through a second-story window.

The structure was discovered on fire on the Tuesday night prior to the midnight hour, but the blaze was extinguished before much damage was done. The day following, Ignatz Karpus of Nemacolin was arrested and taken to Waynesburg. The hearing was set for Saturday morning. At the hearing he was discharged. There was evidence that much oil had been used about the place which caused the fire to burn rapidly.

To boast of honesty is to confess the lack of it.

THE FIREMEN'S BIG CONTEST

Concerning the football game on Thanksgiving afternoon, between the Single and Married men of the Charleroi Fire Department, it now looks as though the married men, or in other words, the "Old Men" of the Department, are in for a stormy afternoon. The single men have been diligently rehearsing their many plays, and they have a few pet ones that no doubt will bring home the bacon.

However, the Married men have their reputations to uphold, and are not going to be caught napping, and they are holding practice sessions regularly, and are showing surprising form. One thing sure is that they should be in good shape, as they say the rolling pin is one of the best conditioners there is, and again they should be pretty good at dodging through the line as they have had plenty of practice dodging plates, cups, etc. Then they get plenty of sleep, as they have to be home at 9 o'clock, and considering all that, they should put up a good game.

It is rumored that both teams are going to the country for a few days, where they will not be under such a strain; however, we cannot vouch for this.

The kick-off is to be at 3 o'clock, sharp, and a large crowd is expected to cheer on their favorite team.

It has been said that all the single men needed to do to win this game is to place some of the married men's wives opposite them and see the results, but of course that would be almost impossible, as there is too much chance of them becoming widows as it is.

Health Head Advises The Use Of Milk

The health talk of the Pennsylvania Department of Health is prepared this week by Dr. Charles H. Miner, Secretary of Health. Dr. Miner says: "Medical inspection of schools has brought to light the fact that an amazingly large number of the school children of Pennsylvania are undernourished. Undernourishment means lessened vitality, halted growth, lowered resistance to disease and death."

"The index to undernourishment is the weight in proportion to age, sex and height. Every school should be provided with accurate scales, and monthly records should be made of the weight of all pupils.

"Malnutrition is due to physical defects, as diseased tonsils, bad teeth and the like; to over-fatigue, lack of home control, poor health habits and improper food.

"It calls for correction of effects, better health habits and plenty of nourishing food, especially milk. If every school child of Pennsylvania would drink a pint of milk a day, it would not be long until undernourishment would be as rare as it is now common."

Police Chief James A. Murphy Resolved To Break Up "Alcohol Gang"

Chief of Police James A. Murphy, Officer Jack Thomas, and Railroad Detective Frank Jones placed under arrest yesterday at the Water tank five members of the "Alcohol gang." They will have their hearing this evening before Burgess J. Bryant Tussing on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Interrogated, Chief Murphy said: "The men arrested were drinking what is termed 'canned heat.' One of them was nearly killed by a passing train, and you can say in the Mail for me that it is my intention to break up the Alcohol gang, who have become a nuisance. A portion of the members of the gang are men who will work, but just now getting work is at a premium; but they must not congregate at the Water tank longer. For I am determined to break up the practice."

The chief showed us a sample of colorless liquid, which he said was "canned heat." If this was a sample, a "whiff" of it was sufficient without the rashness of partaking of the concoction. The case of Louis DeMareo and Miss Grace Wheeler, who resides near West Newton, and who were picked up by the police on charges of being suspicious persons, was held over until this evening at 7 o'clock.

WIFE OF DEAD MAN IDENTIFIES HIM

Following the inquest last night held into the death of the unidentified man, who received injuries Thursday evening, November 20, when struck by an automobile driven by Clyde Glenn Frye of Twilight, which resulted in his death the next morning in the Charleroi-Monessen hospital, Deputy Coroner Michael T. Crowley received a telephone call from Millwood, Pa., a small borough located near Latrobe, in Westmoreland county. The person calling proved to be the wife of the dead man, who had read the account of the man's death in the Latrobe bulletin, which Mr. Crowley had had, a few days ago, published, due to the fact that the man wore a hat that had been purchased in Latrobe.

Mrs. Annie McKinney came to Charleroi last night, accompanied by her mother, and identified the body at the Crowley mortuary as that of her husband, Clinton DeWitt McKinney, aged 63, formerly employed as pumper in a mine. The identification took place between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock early this morning.

According to Mrs. McKinney, her husband had been slightly mentally unbalanced for sometime and was unable to work. He was last seen in Millwood Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and she could not explain how he prevented now the deceased made his way in this section of the country. The accident took place early this morning.

The body was shipped to Millwood this morning, where funeral services will take place.

The deceased was an American, was a member of the local Odd Fellows at Castle Shannon.

William Abel Will Be Obligated to Remain In Jail—Arrested on Two Charges, Selling Liquor And Receiving Stolen Goods

MATTER OF A DONORA CASE

Bertha Ponta Convicted of Larceny By Bailie, Sentenced to Pay the Costs And Committed to Muncy Industrial School—Accused of Keeping Ring

William Abel, who gained considerable publicity through virtue of a copper boiler, the facts of which are known to the readers of the Mail, is refused his release from the county jail. In an opinion handed down by the court, Abel, who sought his release from the county jail on habeas corpus proceedings, is remanded to the custody of the warden of the county jail. Abel was arrested on two charges, one for selling liquor, and the other for receiving stolen goods. At the hearing the court stated that the commonwealth made out a complete prima facie case on the liquor charge, and traced into the defendant's hands, a stolen watch, which was in his control at the time of his arrest. Abel's case did not come before the November grand jury, for the reason that District Attorney Howard W. Hughes was unable to procure the presence of a defaulting witness. Therefore, both were continued until the next grand jury.

Bertha Ponta of Donora, convicted last week of larceny by bailie, was sentenced by Judge James I. Brownson yesterday morning, to pay the costs and was committed to Muncy Industrial school. She was accused of keeping a diamond ring, valued at $250, which had been lent her by John Clement of Donora. The girl claimed that the ring had been given her in exchange for one she had lent Clement. She is 17 years of age.

Everybody loves Charlie Chaplin—at least in the movies. Charlie, however, is having a hard time in marrying his leading lady, Lila Grey, in Mexico, as he made two unsuccessful attempts in this direction last month. After being denied marriage by a civil judge in Guaymas, Chaplin and Miss Grey went to Empalme, Sonora, but failed in their second attempt to cause Mexican law requires publication of intention for 18 days.

This information was received last night in a telegram from American Consul Blocker in Guaymas. Chaplin made application for a marriage license before the judge at Empalme 30 days ago, it was said.

The wedding of Chaplin and Miss Grey is scheduled to take place at Empalme this morning directly upon the arrival of Chaplin from Los Angeles.

A possibility that the ceremony might be postponed, however, was indicated by Miss Grey, who registered at the Hotel Albion in Guaymas on Saturday with her mother and her grandmother.

Miss Grey stated that Chaplin planned to take some scenes for his new film comedy there.

Outside Coaches Are Helping Charleroi And The Donora Elevens

William S. Lampe, in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, has cast his lot with Charleroi, the only school in the above caption. The following is the list of outside coaches who are helping the Charleroi and Donora elevens. Tommy Davies, famous for his coaching at Allegheny College and now coach at Allegheny College and Red Seidelson, a guard with the Warner's last outfit here, but an assistant to Bob Peck at Carnegie Military school, have turned their efforts to giving a lift to another Pitt star, John C. Anderson, Donora's mentor.

At the same time, Bob Thorne, graduate manager at Grove City College, where Stepanian, Charleroi's star, played at one time, and Grimm, formerly principal at Charleroi, but the football man at Rochester high school, which closed its season by throwing a fright into Greensburg, have combined with Jimmy Carson, Carnegie freshman coach, to help out the Monongahela valchamps.

Anderson, a Monongahela City boy, has been turning his efforts to aiding Weirman, a Skibo graduate, at the Monongahela high school, but Charleroi kept on its way to the Syracuse by taking a victory down there Friday. Anderson interested in the welfare of all the scholastic teams of the valley, decided then to

FAY MEETS BERLENBACH AFTER MATCH WITH STRIBLING

In a letter from Louisville, where Harry Fay is finishing his training for his bout with Young Stribling in Atlanta, Ga., next Thursday night, Manager Charley Jones writes:

"The proposed bout between Fay and Mike McTigue here fell through as the Kentucky boxing commission refused to allow McTigue to bring his own referee, whose name is Earle McTigue was to have received a $2,700 guarantee, with the privilege of 40 per cent for this bout. As far as Harry and I were concerned, we did not care who refereed. Harry is boxing in great form and will surely give Stribling plenty of trouble. Since turning pro Harry's work has been

Buck, Frankie Jones, Hugh Ross, Anthony Downey, Johnny Klesch, knocked out George Perotta twice, and knocked out Billy McGowan, who went the limit with Stribling three times. Harry has also beaten Tommy Elliards twice, Johnny Gill and Billy Connelly. Billy Britton, the veteran Kansas middleweight, failed to beat Fay on two occasions. Britton and Fay boxed a draw here last Derby eve and later met in a 12-round bout at Columbus. O. The referee gave Britton the decision after the judges disagreed, although Columbus papers said that Fay should have received the decision. When I matched Fay with Jack Reddick at Atlanta last month I was told that Reddick would stop him. However, Fay upset the dope by giving Reddick a good lacing and it was Reddick who came near being stopped.

Harry is one of the best light heavyweights in the country, although he is only 20 years old and certainly is one of the best prospects ever turned out of the Pittsburgh district. Harry is improving with every start and before long will be recognized as one of the leaders in the light heavyweight division. He is anxious to box Paul Benenbach again and I expect to make this match for him some time during the winter season. Harry beat Benenbach for the amateur 175 pound title of America at Boston, April 10, 1923, and is confident that he can still take Puncher Paul's measure."

New Castle closes its season Thursday with Grove City. The Groves' game means little to New Castle in the league play, but a defeat would make a good excuse for the Syracuse committee to keep it out of further play.

"Some time yesterday Schenley athletic leaders claim they issued a formal challenge to meet Turtle Creek Union soon in an effort to put down the field of remaining challengers. So far nothing towards reaching an agreement has been done.

"While New Castle and Charleroi risk their records for the last time in the regular schedules. Norwin and Greensburg provide the annual football classic in Westmoreland county, when they clash at Greensburg. Norwin, up until the Friday night meet-up of the W. P. I. A. L. decisions committee disqualified it for using non-resident players, had been a serious contender for the cup, but now the game will mean nothing in the standing of the clubs. Outside of these three feature games the other high school clashes of the district, of which there are few, are unimportant except to the players of the schools concerned."

Roscoe Boy To Lead State In Game With Pitt

Paul G. Gray of Roscoe will lead Penn State eleven against the University of Pittsburgh on Forbes field Thanksgiving day.

Gray has the honor of leading the team in his junior year. He is a fine record as varsity center, fall, his first of college football. His work has been even better this year. Three times in the last four he has been honored with leadership, capturing the Kiski team in and the varsity this year.

Gray also has the unusual distinction of being the punter for his team. Indeed, is the center who is behind the line to kick, yet that is what Gray has been doing in key Light to retain his berth in the varsity backfield left the Nittany without a kicker, but Gray filled in and has done well in every play.

He can also place kick in case of injury to Jules Prevost, reliable goal artist.

Gray's understudy, Coach Rozas, has two resources. Bill House, Ford Roadsters, Touring Cars, Coward right guard, is a dependable player and can play the pivot post Slotterbeck's Garage, Fayette City, needed. He shifts to center and Gray goes back to kick. And

MEETING IN FEE LAWS

Harrisburg, Nov. 25.—A conference with Secretary Richard H. Lunsburg, of the Department of Labor and Industry was held here today to consider changes in the present fee laws affecting boilers and elevators to be recommended at the next session of the legislature.

Inadequacies in the present laws were pointed out and a new draft was presented to be worked out at subsequent conferences for submission to the legislature in the form of amendments.

Representatives of insurance companies, the manufacturers of boilers and elevators and labor unions attended the meeting today.

At the present time, under the act regulating boilers and requiring fees for inspection, the money so delivered goes into a special fund of the state treasury and has no way of being used by any state agency, it was stated by Secretary Lunsburg. An amendment was proposed that will make this money available to the department.

The elevator inspection law, it was said, provides for fees that do not cover the cost of inspection. It is proposed that these fees cover the cost of inspection to be made by the department.

At the morning session today the boiler men considered proposals affecting that law while the elevator representatives held their meeting this afternoon. In addition to the fee laws, the elevator men were to discuss changes in the interlock elevator act, a source of some concern at this time.

AN ACCIDENT CAUSES DEATH

At an inquest conducted into the tragic death of Michael Kurtek, Jr., aged 14 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kurtek of near Daisytown, who was killed by the contents of a shotgun shall by a playmate while they were pretending they were soldiers, a verdict of accidental death was returned.

The gun which killed the Kurtek boy was in the hands of Wilmer Yorty. The latter thought it was empty and as he held it leveled at the Kurtek boy pulled the trigger. The contents of the shell entered his abdomen.

Throw Hats at Candidates

The word "hetman" is a title given to the commander in chief of the Cossacks, annually chosen from among their number. The process of selection offers a contrast to the American custom of figuratively throwing one's hat in the ring as a sign of willingness to accept the nomination to office. Among the Cossacks it was the custom while in assembly to throw their fur caps at the candidates for whom they voted, and the one receiving the greatest number was declared elected.—Baltimore Sun.

DEMARCO TO MEET MEL COOGAN FRIDAY

Cuddy DeMarco has been matched to meet Mel Coogan of Brooklyn in an eight-round bout at Cleveland next Friday night. It will be the semi-final to the 12-round feature event in which Romero Quintin Rojas, the Chilean heavyweight, will encounter Johnny Risko.

Manager Mason was not inclined to let DeMarco appear in any bout of lesser rating than a main contest, but Matchmaker Billy Fergus offered such a sum for Cuddy's services that the proposition finally was accepted.

What Did That Meal Cost?

Several dollars—not counting your time and labor—and it might have been ruined, all because of heavy bread or a soggy cake. You may have saved a fraction of a cent by using an unreliable baking powder, but you took the chance of ruining your baking—making a failure of your meal. Do you call that economy?

CALUMET

will make a success of any meal because it always produces perfect bakings—and that's what counts in the success or failure of a meal. No other baking powder is any better—regardless of the price you pay—none is any more economical in use; for Calumet has far greater leavening strength—it goes farther—lasts longer. The last spoonful is as good as the first. Millions of housewives use Calumet—so do the leading hotels, big railroads, renowned restaurants and good bakers.

Real Test of Life

Success comes at the finish, not at the beginning of things. A completed task is the test of ability, of efficiency, of will power. How does the thing you start turn out? Do you leave it half done or do you finish it like a real victor?—Grit.

Life's Epochs

There are but three important epochs in a man's life: when he is born, when he is married and when he dies. And even these are overshadowed by the curiosity whether he is a boy or girl, what the bride wore, and how much he left in his will.

Goldfish From Orient

Goldfish are natives of the fresh waters of China and Japan, and in the natural state are brown, but when domesticated change into the well-known red-gold tint, and sometimes into a silver shade.

SMALL LOAN BANKS

The experience of small loan banks everywhere justifies the confidence of the people of Charleroi and vicinity that they will meet a real community need and prove profitable. They are in no sense charity. The idea is to provide bank credit on reasonable terms for a body of the population that cannot be accommodated by commercial banks. Interest rates necessarily will be higher than those demanded by commercial banks. This is to cover not only the unusual risks taken but also the added labor involved in making loans on security not generally acceptable.

There has been complaint on the part of the uninformed that the poor man is denied credit that is available to the rich. Apparently the complainants believe that the rich borrow "on their faces" for they say that a poor man should be considered as honest as one with property and therefore equally favored by banks. But not even the small loan bank will extend credit for the asking. Like large commercial banks its first concern must be safety of its capital. Yet its greatest security will be the demonstrated common honesty of the people. It is this common honesty that has made possible the stupendous volume of American business, a large proportion of which is done on credit.

But everywhere care has to be exercised that credit be not extended to the unworthy. The small loan bank will rigidly apply this sound principle. Every applicant will have to satisfy the bank that he is entitled to the credit sought. Possibly in the long run it will be found that interest rates can be lowered and the maximum of individual loans raised. It will rest with borrowers to bring about such a result.

PREDATORY WOLVES

Love of life and a sense of inherent right to it are as strong in wild beasts as in civilized men. In these times we are apt to think that beasts of prey have been driven to extinction will not be long delayed, but, given half a chance, they increase amazingly and tend to become as numerous and as determined to follow their natural instincts as ever. We are in the habit of thinking of wolves, for example, as things of the past, yet wolf skins still crowd our markets, which draw heavily from British America and even from the ridged mountainous parts of the United States. Densely populated Europe itself is no exception in this connection. Take for example, the following account of predatory wolves in Italy contributed to the London Observer by its Rome correspondent: "The Abruzzi wolves now hunt in packs and are frequently seen on the outskirts of towns and villages, where they attack stables and sheep folds with dire results. Not far from Sulmona a wolf was found on the landing of a house, and a village nearby was nightly visited by wolves all last winter. Human victims are becoming far from uncommon. A soldier was killed and eaten by wolves at short distance from the railway station of Palena. A few months ago three women were attacked by wolves on a country road and one of them was killed. A fortnight ago the inhabitants of San Vito, on the slopes of Vesuvius, were horrified on coming out from Mass to see a pack of wolves awaiting them in front of the church. The women and children were astily thrust back into the building and barricaded in, while the men made for the animals with their guns and succeeded in shooting the leader."

To Clean Clock

To clean a clock saturate a piece of absorbent cotton about as large as a hen's egg with kerosene oil and place it in the bottom. Close the door and let the cotton remain for three or four days. Then take it out and swing the clock will go all right, as the fumes from the oil cleanse the works.

Odor of Paint

After a room has been painted, an efficient way to remove the smell of paint is to place a pail of water, which have been added a few slices of onion, in the room and leave it overnight. Keep the doors and windows open and the smell will be removed.

The world is filled with persons who saw their opportunity, grasped it and found it wasn't there.

It is the mails that are being made safer, not the males.

Dry Farming.

The farmers are to get a billion dollars for their wheat crop this year, but they will not keep it through the winter.

Where the Rub Comes.

A laugh is the world's greatest solvent.

Of troubles, of worries, of ills;
Learn to laugh when the world is against you,
Laugh at your unpaid bills;
Laugh when your love treats you dirty,

Laugh when your relatives call;
Laugh when you're facing bankruptcy,

Laugh at the joke of it all.
I subscribe to this laughing philosophy,

I favor making it a law;
Yet in spite of its many good qualities,

I find that it is easier to laugh off

I find that it is easier to laugh off things that happen to others, than it is to laugh off gaily the things that happen to me.

Indirectly.

Are you acquainted with Mrs. Styles, your fashionable neighbor?
Only in a roundabout way. Her cat boards at my house.

Every man has moments of depression when he wonders what an appendix and he were made for.

Head Worth $15,000

Accident insurance companies average values thus: On a business basis your arms are worth $5,000; your legs $250; your eyes, $500; a finger, $250. According to that computation, your head must be worth at least $15,000. Therefore, when you got up this morning, if you did not have a dollar in the bank, you had a working capital of $30,000. With that much of a start you may go far.

Who Calls the Frogs?

Frogs and toads in winter are deeply buried in the mud or beneath some stump, log or stone. Nature awakens them at the proper time, however, says Nature Magazine. How it is that they know when it is time for them to come forth is one of the mysteries of nature that has never been satisfactorily solved. Nevertheless, they are never late.

To Make Hammers Last

If you have a hammer the head of which keeps flying off, sandpaper the handle, replace the head, drive in wedges in the usual "H" form, and then boil the hammer slowly in linseed oil for about three hours. Treated in this way a hammer should last a lifetime without trouble of any sort, says Popular Science Monthly.

Origin of Much Slang

In the sixteenth century slang was called "Pedlar's French," and everybody has heard a cash register called a "Jew's piano." The fur trade has many aliases of this kind, like "bunny seal," "marsh-squirrel," and "Alaskan sable," all of which are camouflage names for substitutes for the real article.—London Answers.

Wives Beat Husbands

Wives may whip faithless husbands and the husbands mustn't complain, according to a recent decision of the Austrian Supreme court. When a woman beats her wayward spouse, the court held, such a beating is "but the natural reaction to his conduct."

Be Careful of Words

Thoughts are the children of your brain and words are the garments they wear—do not make tramps of them. Words are all-powerful—they can wreck homes, destroy lives, ruin business and devastate property.—G. W. Robnett.

Cane Grows Tall

Stems of the sugar cane plant resemble cornstalks and often attain a height of fifteen to eighteen feet, says Nature Magazine. They are thick and unbranched, with broad, flat leaves three feet or more in length.

Highest Scottish Lake

Scotland can boast of the highest loch in Britain, Loch Coire-an-Lochan, lying 8,250 feet above the level of the sea. England's highest sheet of water is the Red Tarn, on Helvellyn, over 2,000 feet altitude.

Term for Morbid State

Neurosis is the medical term describing a morbid state, either functional or organic. Neuroses are classed as disorders of emotion, nutrition, heat, perception, circulation, and as sensory disorders.

Hardly Worth Looking For

No Tax on Opinion

"Everybody," said Uncle Eben, "is entitled to his own opinion, which is 'bout de only thing you kin possess without payin' taxes on it."

Real Courage

True bravery is shown by performing without witnesses what one might be capable of doing before all the world.—La Rochefoucauld.

Napoleon and Suicide

Truffles Under Oaks

Most truffles are found under oak trees in France, but they are also unearthed under beeches, hazel, birch and willow.

DEATH ACCIDENTAL; CLYDE FRYE, DRIVER, FREED OF BLAME

In the undertaking rooms of Deputy Coroner Michael T. Crowley last night at 7 o'clock the inquest into the death of the unidentified man who died with County Coroner William Greenlee presiding. The jury was composed of N. H. Wagner, George F. Arnold, J. J. O'Connor, R. O. Vetter, George Alfree and Paul H. Ryland, issued the following statement: "We, the jury inquiring into the death of the unknown man, do find that the said person came to his death at the CharleROI-Monessen hospital on November 21, 1924, from a fractured skull due to being struck by an automobile owned and driven by Clyde Frye on November 20, 1924, in Mc-

Kean avenue, near the Water works, CharleROI, Pa.
"We further find the above case was accidental and unavoidable and exonerate the driver, Clyde Frye, from all blame."

Church Owns Race Track

Perhaps there is only one church in the world which owns a race course. Half a mile from Esler church in the English county of Surrey, is the Sandown race course. The church has owned most of this land for nearly three hundred years, and it derives a big revenue from the race meetings.

He Wasn't Polite

In a recent entrance examination paper one question was: "Explain the difference between a strong verb and a weak verb." A small boy's answer read: "If I say shut the door, it is a strong verb; but if I say please shut the door, it is a weak one."

Statue Put to Use

The statue of Berolina, the guardian goddess of Berlin, Germany, in the Alexanderplatz, has been fitted with a false right arm and hand, which holds a disc signal. When the arm is extended traffic through the plat is held up. When the way is clear, the traffic man on duty, stationed in a little signal box, pulls a lever, up goes Berolina's arm, and the waiting vehicles steam past.

Wine 384 Years Old

Which is the oldest bottle of wine in the world? As far as authenticated records can settle this question, the palm undoubtedly goes to a bottle of St. Jovin—a Bavarian hock—which bears on its label the date 1340. The 384-year-old bottle and its precious contents, which Henry VIII might have sampled, are in the possession of a London wine expert.

Betting Machine

The "Parimutuel" or "totalizer" is a betting machine fitted with a number of receptacles. The hacker places his stake in the receptacle appropriated to the horse he favors, and at the end of the race the supporters of the successful horse divide up all the money staked on the different horses, less 10 per cent, which goes to the owner of the machine.

All Help Unfortunate

A singular custom prevails among the Tartars or Kurds. If a man loses his cattle or other property he pours a little brown sugar into a piece of colored cloth, ties it up, and carries one such parcel to each of his friends and acquaintances. In turn he is presented, according to circumstances, with a cow or sheep or a sum of money.

Walnut Not "English"

The nut known as the English walnut is the fruit of the Persian or Circassian walnut tree. The name "English walnut" is applied to it in the United States. While the tree is a native of Persia and the Himalayas, it is cultivated in many countries, particularly in southern Europe and in California.

There will be a business meeting held Thursday, December 4 at the home of Mrs. C. B. King of Sixth street. Mrs. Cora McGill was enrolled as a new member last night.

Highly Pized Medal

The medal of honor of the United States, given for bravery on the field of battle, was instituted by a law approved July 12, 1862. It is authorized by congress and awarded for particular deeds of distinguished bravery in action. Congress did, however, on March 26, 1776, order a gold medal struck for General Washington. Before this was made a silver medal was voted, struck and presented to Lieutenant Colonel Fleury for his gallantry in the assault upon Stony Point, July 15, 1779.

Business in the Desert

Bandits make huge profits from the caravan shipping business of Tripoli, the gateway to the Sahara desert. The bandits are not in the business—they exact huge tributes to insure the freight shipments against looting. Tripoli thrives despite the menace of the desert thieves, however, and all kinds of goods from rhino horns to ostrich plumes, are shipped on caravans from there.—Exchange.

Overcrowded China

If the population of the United States and 40,000,000 more were crowded into the state of Texas, the density of the population would be about the same as that of China in the valleys of the Yang-tze Kiang and the plains between the Yang-tze Kiang and the Hwangho. This means an average of 520 persons to the square mile.

He Took His Encore

It was little Ruth's first visit to the farm. She was watching a meadow lark in an adjoining field and listening to his song. In a little while she entered the house and told her aunt about it. "He wasn't a bit afraid," she said, "he just looked at me and then turned round and sang another verse."—Boston Transcript.

Tabbie Had Been Busy

Artisans were placing the last of the marble slabs around the walls of a bank in Pittsburgh when a cat was discovered behind the slabs. All efforts with cream and other dainties failed to coax her out; neither could she be caught with wire hooks or other devices. The whole day was wasted while the marble-setters waited. Finally a small boy—a very small boy—crawled into the crevice and brought out Tabbie—and nine kittens.

His "Think" Unchanged

When Hobart makes up his mind to anything it is a hard matter to change him. One day when he decided to do something his sister did not want him to do she talked to him for a long time trying to persuade him to see her point of view. When she finally desisted from lack of further reasons, he said: "You see, Millie, you've wasted all your talk, for my think is just where it was when you started."

Actors' Superstition

When a train from London to Aberdeen was halfway across the Forth bridge all the members of a theatrical party traveling in it threw coins from the windows into the river. Asked for an explanation, one of their number said they were prompted by a superstition common among actors and actresses going to Scotland.—London Tit-Bits.

Bunker's Hill

The Massachusetts Historical society says that Charles Bunker, an early settler of Charlestown, who died in 1664, owned about ten acres of land on the highest hill in that town, which has ever since been known as Bunker's hill. The battle, though not fought on his pasture, took place in its neighborhood and carried the name of Bunker with it.

DR. J. W. MANON IS ELECTED AS VICE PRESIDENT

The recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the State Sabbath School Association held in the Witherspoon building, Philadelphia, was unusually large and being the first meeting of members of the board in the new year officers were elected as follows: James L. Lansing as chairman of the board, with Dr. Alex Henry as secretary H. E. Paisley, treasurer and Romaine Hasserick, as legal counsel.

An additional vice president was elected in the person of Dr. J. W. Manon of this place. Miss Ester I. Williams, Associate Young People's superintendent, was honored by the International Council of Religious Education in being requested to take charge of the Young People's work in their camps this summer. The large number of similar requests that comes for use of Pennsylvania staff workers would indicate their high standard of the various staff members.

The State Association is putting on an "In-Gathering Campaign" for the coming year with an aim of securing 250,000 additional members in Pennsylvania which is a 20 per cent increase.

Secretary Myers paid a splendid tribute to B. S. Forstythe of Allegheny county, who recently passed to his eternal reward.

President Craig urged upon the board members to get busy in raising needed funds for the year's work and backed up his plan by presenting several hundred dollars in new pledges which he had secured in that way.

It was decided that the next State Convention be held October 14, 15, and 16, 1925, at Erie, Pa.

All working committees were appointed for the coming year by President Craig.

Canadians Are Preparing for a Bigger and Better Winter Sports Season Than History Has Known

E. DES BAILLETS
Canada is busy with elaborate plans for a big time when the Snow King arrives for the north. It is always sure of a white winter. Naturally, the Chateau Frontenac, capital of winter sports is in the fore-front with plans for carnival days. E. Des Bailleurs, a past master of all sorts of winter sports, has been imported to be sports director for that hotel. Mr. Des Bailleurs is of French descent but was born in Switzerland, and enjoyed all the advantages of winter sports in that mountain country. He came to the United States in 1910 and was for two years Sports Director of Tuxedo Club at Tuxedo, New York's most fashionable country club. He promoted and directed the Sno-Birds of Lake Placid, also international competitions of all sorts of sports. He plans to form a "Frontenac Winter Club" in Quebec, which will put on a program of international competitions including figure skating, curling, ski-running, ski-jumping, hockey, snowshoe runs and other winter sports activities. Night skating masquerades on the illuminated open rink has outside the Chateau door are expected to lead enchantment to evening festivities. Moonlight ski-runs and sleighing parties will divide honors with the brightly lighted toboggan slide on DuRoi's Terrace and the lure of sweet strains of music within the dancing rooms. Ski-touring will receive much attention and owners of fast horses are being encouraged to train them for that sport. Races will be held on a track of well beaten snow. The Chateau dog team will play its usual part in adding sport and merriment, and will be housed in a little Eskimo igloo, adding to the picturesque.

Many parties of Americans will spend the holidays in Quebec. The Chateau is particularly popular with Bostonians who often arrange parties of twenty-five or more—youth and old—to spend Christmas in Quebec. It is a long time from Quebec to Revelstoke, B. C., the ski-jumping center of the Canadian Rockies. Revelstoke is not behind its eastern sister when it comes to getting ready for winter sports. The largest skating rink in western Canada is to be erected at Revelstoke and offers are being received from teams all over the west to compete on the new rink; skating will be the premier sport, but hockey and curling will not be neglected, while a toboggan slide will be operated in connection with the rink. Negotiations are under way to get the best ski-jumpers to participate in Revelstoke's ski-jumping carnival.

11 TONS OF ROSES FOR POUND OF ATTAR

Huge Quantities of Flowers Used in Perfume.

New York.—While the chemist today is able, by analyzing odor-giving elements in flowers, to produce artificial perfume, this process has not and, it is predicted, never will replace perfume-making from fresh flowers, an industry dating back almost before the dawn of history. For centuries, ceaseless experiments have developed two chief ways of obtaining sweet perfume from flowers.

The process of greatest general use in unlocking the fragrant cells of flowers to take their perfume is called enfleurage. A housewife, who understands how butter or lard left in the icebox will sometimes absorb odors, can readily see how this process is used to extract odor from flowers. The blossoms from which the odorless parts are removed are mixed slowly in huge vats of melted beef or pork suet. More and more blossoms are mixed in until the fat has the odor of the required strength, and then the fat is thoroughly washed with alcohol. Then a very strange thing happens. The fragrance has passed from the flowers into the fat and now shows a remarkable affinity for the alcohol. In this way the essence of attar is created.

Use Absorption. The other system adopted after centuries of experiment is by absorption. The flower blossoms are sprinkled face down in air-tight chambers, in which glass walls are covered with fat. Twice a day the flower supply is renewed. This process is repeated twice daily for many months until the fat absorbs the odor in sufficient strength. The fat is then melted in glass and the essence is obtained from it by washing with alcohol.

Some idea of the enormous amount of flowers required for perfume making may be gained by realizing that to make one pound of attar of roses requires eleven tons of roses, or about three million blossoms. The principal perfume center of the world lies between the Bay of Cannes and the mountains beyond Grasse in southern France, though flowers for perfume do come from every country and climate. The flower farms in Alpine villages are the mecca of lovers of perfume. From December until March fragrance is extracted from rosewood, sandalwood and other herbs, and in March work begins on fresh flowers, including the violet, and then the jonquil, orange blossom, rose, mimosa, jasmine, tuberose and cassia buds.

A curious fact is that the flowers are picked in the fields at the hour when their scent is known to be strongest. The rose is gathered as soon as it is open. The carnation must have three hours' exposure to the sun before it is picked. The late czarina of all the Russias is said to have preferred toilet water made of violets picked at twilight near Grasse.

Veiled in Mystery. From earliest days the making of perfume has been veiled with the great shroud of secrecy, because the perfumers did not want their trade secret known. Around the making of perfumes were woven fearful tales by the Saracens of Sheba, who said that cinnamon was gathered from the nest of the phoenix and that it was collected by that bird in some strange manner unknown to them. They also told stories about how they found the perfume attar guarded by ferocious winged serpents that dwelt in marshes. Another queer tale was that bats flew at the eyes of all who tried to gather cassia. As time passed, though, men learned how to gather flowers to make perfumes. On through the Middle Ages the process became more widely known throughout the world, though the Romans, in their love of luxury, are thought to have known facts about perfume making that even today men of science do not know.

Elephant Sale Falls
Little Rock, Ark.—Probably the first real elephant market in the United States was established here when two trained beasts of a defunct circus were put on the block and offered to a number of municipalities that were seeking additions to their zoos. The receiver offered the elephants at $2,000, with no takers.

New York Preserves Types of Other Times

New York.—The facade of the old United States Assay Office building, which formerly stood at 15 Wall street, has been reassembled stone by stone as the front of the new American wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in Central park. The new wing will be devoted entirely to American art of the colonial, revolutionary and republican periods, and will be formally thrown open to the public November 10.

This building will be unique in that its 15 rooms for the most part will be constructed of the actual woodwork that formed the walls and ceilings of historic and characteristic early rooms.

Collections of objects of American furniture, silverware, glass and pottery of the Seventeenth, Eighteenth and early Nineteenth centuries will be housed in appropriate rooms.

Crossing the Ocean in Colonial Times

A journal written by a tourist who crossed the Atlantic to New York before the year 1700 has recently been discovered. It gives a vivid picture of early shipboard accommodation. The passenger was traveling for pleasure, not emigrating. He was accustomed to the best treatment the traveler of that period could procure.

His journal records that the diminutive sailing vessel set out on its long voyage from Holland bound for New Amsterdam. He begins early in the voyage to complain of the cabin. There was no palatial lounge and writing room in those days. Although he was a first-class passenger, he could not enjoy the luxury of a private stateroom, but shared the little cabin with men, women and children. He noted that the deck above his head was so low that though seated on his trunk writing his journal, he could not sit erect. The space between decks was little more than three feet.

He complains of the rough weather and of the fact that most of the cabin passengers were seasick. There is, besides, frequent comment upon the quality of the drinking water, which did not improve in the two months required for the crossing. The bathing of a few buckets of salt water enjoyed in a more or less secluded corner of the deck.

The traveler girds at the customs regulations. It is recorded that the sea chests and rolls of clothing were turned inside out with no consideration for the feelings of the owners. The writer noticed that the passengers who enjoyed political positions were not molested.

"Cheshire Cat" Grin Various Explained

The expression, "to grin like a Cheshire cat," has never been satisfactorily accounted for. It was popularized by Lewis Carroll in his "Adventures of Alice in Wonderland." In this pretty story the Cheshire cat is a grinning cat which makes its appearance to give Alice advice. The first time the cat suddenly disappears. But after considerable persuasion by Alice the cat returns and then disappears gradually and almost imperceptibly. The last thing to vanish was the grin, says the Detroit News.

It is said that cheese originally made in Cheshire, England, was molded into forms like a grinning cat. The word "Cheshire," is pronounced "Chesh-ir," with the accent on the first syllable and the "r" short as in "irritate." There is also a humorous explanation of this phrase. Cheshire is one of those counties in England known as counties palatine—that is, the count or earl has certain royal privileges. This idea, it is said, is so funny to the cats in that region that they are perpetually amused at it. A person who shows his teeth when he laughs is said to grin like a Cheshire cat. The expression is especially applied to a forced or sneering smile.

"Healing" Powers of Flowers

Some quaint superstitions still linger around many of the common flowers in rural parts of the country.

Groundsel is said to be a certain cure for toothache, but the root must be dug up with an implement having no iron in it, and the aching tooth is then touched five times with the root.

The juice of the red flower of valerian is a cure for splinters in the flesh, while fennel flowers will heal broken bones, or, if they need to be glued together, the roots of Solomon's seal, ground up and drunk in ale, will do the trick.

Eyebright is believed to be infallible for treating all eye troubles, especially failing eyesight, the ruralists pointing out that birds and animals never suffered from bad eyes because they peck at the eyebright.

Quite Capable

There is nothing sinful about having a reasonable pride in one's belongings and estate, but when a man has not the sense to keep his mouth shut about them he becomes a general nuisance.

A farmer of this order had met a few of his acquaintances on the market day, and, as usual, soon monopolized the whole of the conversation, talking about his steam threshers, his reaping machine, his barns, his his and his that, until they were all heavily tired of listening to him. He was the first to go, however.

"Aye," says one of them, "and has ye a wife?"

"Na, that's what ah hae nae."

"Well, man, it's a pity ye had nae, for ye could blaw it yerself!"—London Weekly Telegraph.

Home of Little Spirits

"Little Devil's Hill," which is to be found in Clay county, South Dakota, is a strange looking flat topped hill in the midst of level prairie. It is 30 yards long, 60 or 70 yards wide, and about 70 feet high. The top is a smooth level plain. The Indians made this hill a great article of their superstition. They called it the Mountain of Little People, or Little Spirits. They believed it was the abode of little devils in human form, about 18 inches high, with remarkably large heads, and armed with sharp arrows, with which they were very active. They were always on the watch to kill those who approached their residence. The tradition was that many had suffered from these little evil spirits.

It is all right to have business men in office if they will remember whose business it is.

The man who invented the word "bonobon" was probably a stutterer.

Woodcock Second to No Bird for Intelligence

If we may believe the naturalists, the woodcock is an unusual bird. When migrating he flies at a great height until he wishes to rest and then descends almost perpendicularly to the spot which he has chosen. As a worm-digger he is unexcelled, and has even been known to have a batting average of .1000 when striking his long bill into the turf in search of breakfast.

Among the other characteristics is a dislike of bright light, which makes him keep in the dark during the daytime. Whether this is due to thwarted vanity, naturalists do not tell us, although he is described as having legs which are too short for his large body, a tail only half as long as it should be, a neck which is both too short and too fat, and a bill which is too long and too straight. To complete the list of his qualities, his eyes are said to be too far back and his head entirely out of drawing.

Undoubtedly the nature fakers could tell us what sort of complex afflictions, for they have again revived the story that the woodcock is capable of self-surgery, and has been known to put a broken leg in splints and to dress his wounds with plaster made of mud.

section is given in the Living Age as a writer in l'Echo de Paris, who has gathered testimony from witnesses in Sardinia, Thrace and France. The peckdaw of Remus apparently isn't in it for pure avian acumen.

Trenchers of Wood Often Works of Art

Wooden trenchers, common, called "treen" were in common use during the Middle Ages in Great Britain. "Masters" or cups and bowls were frequently mentioned in wills and inventories. The finer specimens belonged to the richer abbots—thus, there was the Great Master at York, the Judas Cup at Durham, and at St. Saviour's, Southwark there was "a master with a border and knop of silver and gilt which was given to the church wardens to drink when they met." These valuable wooden cups were sometimes ornamented by a ring of silver, but otherwise they were seldom decorated by more than a few low moldings or incised lines. Their value and beauty lay in the graining of the wood generally maple, and the old turners chose the part of the trunk where it divided off into branches so as to obtain the speckled bird's-eye graining. By Tudor times pewter began to take the place of treen, though power folk continued to use these wooden trenchers and bowls till much later, especially in the north of England and in Scotland.

The Marriage Problem

You can no more make yourself keep on loving some one to order than you can make yourself fall in or out of love with some one to order. It's like asking a small boy to light a street lamp with only a match. He can't reach—the whole thing's beyond him. That's the tragedy—the whole relationship is dependent on something that sails as a drifting cloud above your head as a drifting cloud. To base on that an irrevocable agreement? It's simply asking for trouble. It's like jumping into ten feet of water without knowing whether you can swim or not, and then complaining because you're drowned.—From "The Marriage-Craft," by D. H. S. Nicholson.

Throw Out the Life Line

Just before the conclusion of the weekly prayer meeting in a country town one evening the parson arose, and glanced over the congregation. "Is there anybody present," said he, "who wishes the prayers of the congregation for a relative or a friend?" "Yes, parson," answered a tall, angular woman, rising to her feet. "I want the congregation to pray for my husband."

"Why, Sister Martha," exclaimed the parson, with a surprised expression, "you have no husband?" "I know I haven't," was the calm rejoinder of Sister Martha. "I want all hands to pitch in and help pray for one."

Burial of Braddock

Gen. Edward Braddock was buried in the middle of the road about 50 miles from Cumberland, Md. Care was taken to close the grave and have the troops and wagon train pass over it to efface all marks of the burial. This was to prevent desecration of the remains by the Indians. Many years later General Braddock's grave was discovered when a road was being built through that part of Pennsylvania. Part of the bones of Braddock finally found their way to a museum in Philadelphia. It is said that some of them were also taken to England. At any rate they were removed from their resting place in the forest.

Bird Imitates Mole

A remarkable bird, in appearance not unlike an ordinary farmyard denizen, and known as a Highland cock, has broken away from the bird tradition and instead of building its nest among the trees or caves, has launched out on bold and original lines of its own and has learned to make a subterranean nest. The idea is exclusive failed to discover imitators. Or triches have been observed flirting with the idea, but so far they have only been able to get their heads below the surface.

An old timer is one who can remember when the first essential in learning to swim wasn't a shape.

Look before you leap; for snakes don't bond; was probably a stutterer. Lamont: sweet flowers, creep.
